PREFACE.

IN presenting their first edition of the Hamilton Directory, the Publishers have great pleasure in acknowledging the large patronage extended to their work not only in the city but throughout Dundas and Ancaster as well. It has been their aim to give to their Subscribers the most complete and reliable Directory ever published in this city in the most compressed form, neither pains nor expense having been spared on their part in taking the names of the inhabitants from door to door by careful agents, and in the formation of the Street Directory—a great acquisition to such a work. To give some idea of the value and accuracy of the present work they would mention that it contains 700 more names than has yet appeared in any former Directory published in this city. In Dundas and Ancaster the same care and attention have been paid in taking the names of the inhabitants. They feel confident, in taking leave of their Subscribers till next year, that the present work will be found as correct and reliable as it is possible for a Directory to be. In conclusion, they have much pleasure in tendering their sincere thanks to the officers of the County, City Corporation, and Public Institutions, Societies and Companies for the kind and prompt manner in which they gave the information desired for the Miscellaneous part of the Directory.

Publishers.

THE CITY OF HAMILTON.

Hamilton, the "Ambitious City," lies on the south shore of Burlington Bay, at the western extremity of Lake Ontario. It covers a space about two miles in length of the level which reaches from the lake shore to the mountain, and is about a mile and a half in width. Away to the east stretches a country which has gained a wide celebrity as the finest fruit country in the world; to the south, west and north, lies a fine rich agricultural territory; and to the north-east stretch the broad blue waters of Lake Ontario, whitened with the swelling canvas of a thousand ships, and bearing upon their bosom the commerce of two nations. The mountain is but the escarpment to the broad plateau of Western Ontario, worn down by the ceaseless dash of the waters of the ancient lake. It stretches away to the east, forming the precipices over which leap grandly the thundering Niagara and the dashing Genesee, and loses itself finally in the wild savagery of the Adirondacks. North-west of the city are Burlington Heights, a tall wall of concrete, built up and cemented together by the action of the water, in the same way that Burlington Beach, which separates the Bay from the Lake, is now being compacted. On the Heights are still visible the breastworks thrown up during the war of 1812, whence issued the force under General Sheaffe, which fell upon Generals Winder and Chandler at Stoney Creek, captured them and routed their army. "Beautiful for situation," Hamilton has also many fine buildings, public and private; and the magnificent residences, surrounded by exquisitely kept grounds, in the outskirts of the city, have more than a local celebrity.

Hamilton is the seat of a very large manufacturing industry. The car shops, repair shops, and rolling mills of the Great Western Railway, are located here, giving employment to six or seven hundred mechanics. No less than four sewing-machine factories are in operation, which give employment to five or six hundred men, and turn out about a thousand machines every week. There are ten iron foundries, some of them among the largest in the Dominion; and many other branches of productive industry are largely carried on. Altogether, about five thousand artisans find constant employment here, at remunerative wages.

Hamilton is very advantageously situated for trade. Not only is she at the head of lake navigation, with daily lines of steamers, giving her communication with all the lake ports, east and west, and with tide water at Montreal; but she is connected with the whole Canadian and American system of railways by the Great Western Railway. And she is now engaged in the construction of three different lines of road, all terminating at Hamilton, which must, when completed, vastly increase the city's trade. The Hamilton and Lake Erie road is under contract from Hamilton to Jarvis. It will intersect the Grand Trunk Railway at Caledonia, the Canada Southern at Hagersville, and the Great Western Air Line at Jarvis. All these roads will have running powers over it. It is believed that this line will vastly increase the trade of Hamilton, especially in grain. The President of the Canada Southern Railway estimates that he can carry wheat from Chicago to Hamilton for eight cents a bushel, and, if return freights can be secured, for even less. This is as low as wheat is now carried by water to Buffalo, while a great saving in time will be affected. By this route, wheat can be carried from Chicago to Montreal as cheaply as it is now carried to Oswego or Kingston; and it is hoped that the great bulk of the grain from the Western States will move by this line. The Wellington, Grey and Bruce Railway reaches the waters of Lake Huron at Southampton and Kincardine. The main line will be opened to Southampton this year; and the Southern Extension will be finished to Kincardine next year. Besides securing the trade of the rich and fertile Counties of Bruce, Grey and Huron—the garden of Canada—this line will open up to Hamilton a direct communication with Manitoba and Minnesota, by means of a line of steamers to Fort William and Duluth. The Hamilton and Northwestern Railway is intended to run due north to Collingwood, while it is proposed to build, in time, a branch to connect, near Lake Nipissing, with the Canada Pacific road. When this magnificent system is completed, Hamilton will become the most important railway centre in Canada, and will no doubt become the most considerable commercial city in the Dominion west of Montreal.

The progress of Hamilton has been very rapid. The town was laid out in 1813, but it was many years before it attained to the dignity of a village. Ancaster and Dundas were then its chief rivals, and to them it had to look up as it now looks up to Montreal. In 1841 its population was 3,446, which had increased to 10,312 in 1850. In 1856 it was estimated at 27,500; and Lovell's Directory, in 1857, put it at about 29,000. Then, however, came a season of depression. The young city became too ambitious; it undertook too much. It had invested largely in railways; it built magnificent waterworks; it dug expensive sewers; it erected gas works; and the burden of debt which it brought upon itself was too much for its people to bear. Years of disaster followed; property fell in value; business decayed; the population decreased. In 1861 the Government Census Commissioners found but 19,096 souls here; and three years later the City Assessors reported but about 17,000. From this state of depression, however, the city rallied nobly; business revived, manufactures sprang up, and Hamilton once more entered the race with Toronto for supremacy in Ontario. In 1871 her population was 26,716; and to-day it is fully thirty thousand. Her real and personal property has also increased rapidly in value; while her trade has more than kept pace with her progress in other respects. In 1850 her total exports were valued at $352,892; in 1855 they had risen to $1,718,344. Last year she shipped to the United States alone goods valued at more than two millions of dollars; and the total exports for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1871, were a trifle under four millions of dollars.

Hamilton possesses abundant and excellent educational facilities; her ward schools are models of comfort; her Central School is an institution which completes the English education of the pupils, grounds them in classical studies, and fits them to enter the Collegiate Institute. It proves inadequate for the large number of pupils who daily graduate for the primary schools ; and a large and beautiful auxiliary building, near the Custom House, is now almost completed. The Collegiate Institute is the most successful High School in Canada. Its roll of pupils is large ; its curriculum admirable, and it is quite competent to give its pupils a thorough classical education. The Separate Schools are also well attended, and admirably managed. One of the "institutions" of the city is the Wesleyan Female College, to which young ladies are sent from all parts of Canada, and many from the United States are among its pupils.

Hamilton is abundantly supplied with church accommodation. There are twenty-three church edifices now in the city, and a beautiful stricture for the Church of England is in course of erection.

Under the new apportionment Hamilton is entitled to two Members of Parliament. An election is pending at the present time.

Undoubtedly the "Ambitious City" has a noble future before her. Her business men have shown themselves to be enterprising and spirited, and with such men to make her history, and such material as they possess to work upon, there cannot remain a doubt that the city's progress will be more rapid than it has been in the past. There is little doubt that the great bulk of the trade of the Western Peninsula will center at her docks, and that she will become the great market of exchange for the trade between Ontario and the United States. She grasps at illimitable possibilities, and will never be content to rest while there is anything to be gained by earnest labor or patient waiting. With her eye fixed on the future, she awaits an exalted destiny, never doubting of the result, and never doubting the prophetic instinct of the sagacious men who selected for her motto the words "I advance."
